A Senator is born

Born on February 7, 1919, Stanley Joseph Galaszewski (Stan Galle) plays 13 games for the Washington Senators over a one month period in early 1942.

With four of the organization's third basemen - Buddy Lewis, Cecil Travis, Hillis Layne and Bob Morem - serving in the military, manager Bucky Harris names Galle to the the Senators' opening day roster.

The Milwaukee, Wisconsin, high school football star goes 0-for-1 in his major league debut (April 14) in a 7-0 loss to the New York Yankees in the season opener for both teams ... 12 days later (April 26) Galle makes his first major league start and is 1-for-4 against righthander Lum Harris in a 6-1 loss to the visiting Philadelphia Athletics.

in 18 at bats with one RBI, before the Senators send him to the Toledo Mud Hens of the American Association on May 14 ... in his 19 plate appearances with the Senators, Galle does not strike out but grounds into three double plays.

In eight minor league seasons (1937-1942, 1946, 1951), Galle hits .289 with 211 doubles, 58 triples and 38 homeruns ... a three-time .300 hitter, Galle is named to the Three-I All-Star team in 1940 after hitting .296 with 24 doubles, seven triples, four home runs and 77 RBIs for the Madison Blues.

In his final season as a player/manager with the Ada Herefords of the Sooner State League in 1951, the 32-year-old Galle hits .317 with 10 home runs.

On August 26, Galle hits the final home run of his career in a 6-5 loss to the Seminole Ironmen, a team that will finish the season with a less-than-stellar 37-103 and 62 1/2 games behind the first-place Ardmore Indians.
